Hi! Thank you for your interest in my blog! Launched in 2016, Love & Messiness is my way to share my very ordinary and extraordinary life with all of my readers in hopes that it makes them feel a little bit normal. All of our lives are full of love and messiness! Everyone is different yet we are all the same in some way! I love the thought of someone reading my blog and feeling relief that someone else is feeling the same way or has done the same crazy thing a time or two!

On the blog I share stories of motherhood, tips and tricks for parenting and caring for your marriage along the way. I also share our story on remodeling our home and turning our house into our forever home. Most of what I blog is about our day to day lives! I know that the internet and social media are the go-to places for life's questions and I hope my blog is an authentic place for mothers to go and feel like home!

ABOUT Kristy

Hi! I'm Kristy. I am married to the love of my life, Erik and we have four amazing children, Marlee, Milo, Chase and Vayda. I am a full time, working mom but I was born to be a wife & mother! I love to be creative, decorate, and all things coffee! This blog sums up my life...lots of love and messiness!
